PREFACE

We are happy to see a great demand of PID Telephone Guide to its users. As the whole supply of the 20th edition of the guide has been exhausted within less than one year, we have to print the 21st edition in a very short notice. Despite time constraint, cooperation extended by the media houses, ministries, departments and other organizations in updating the guide is praiseworthy.

PID Telephone Guide, unlike other departmental telephone guides, has a specialty. It is fully meant for media people. The present democratic government led by Hon'ble Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina firmly believes in freedom of press, as the fourth estate after executive, legislature and judiciary to run the state-craft. And that is why, the media arena in the country is expanding day by day. At present, there are as many as 1200 dailies, 1798 weeklies, fortnightlies & monthlies, 31 TV channels, hundreds of radio stations and online news media running in the country. To coordinate all these media, a dedicated team of PID has made sincere efforts to publish an effective media telephone guide for professional use. Our journalist-friends through their invaluable suggestions have also contributed to enrich the telephone guide.

We have always been sincere to bring out an utmost updated version of the Telephone Guide for the convenience of our respected stakeholders. If there is any mistake, we humbly regret for that. We are also regretful for not being able to cover many important phone numbers yet. Our efforts, however, would continue to present an online complete guide constantly updating the changes so that anybody visiting our website can pick up the latest contacts.

Valuable suggestions or opinions from any quarter in improving the PID TELEPHONE GUIDE 2019 would cordially be accepted.

Dhaka, 20 January 2019
